Wednesday, June 22 & Thursday June 23, 2016
Bates College, Lewiston

Maine School Wellness Summit, the foundation of the Maine Schoolsite Health Promotion Program, is a two-day rich educational experience designed to support individuals and teams in designing, enhancing and implementing employee wellness, health promotion, health education and the maintenance of a healthy learning environment and school climate as part of a coordinated approach to school health. Participants will engage in a variety of sessions and experiences that provide information, resource materials and tools on leadership development; creating or enhancing positive and safe school climate and culture; improving the health of students, staff, and the school environment; and contributing to personal well-being and overall healthy schools. All of this will contribute to improved academic achievement.

Who should attend the Summit? Any person working in or with a school or school district who is interested in supporting and participating in health promotion and wellness efforts. Including but not limited to...

Teachers	Administrators	Human Resource Directors	Transportation Staff
School Counselors	School Nurses	Support Staff	Parents
Special Education Staff	Educational Technicians	School Health Coordinators
Community Members	Business Office Managers	School Board Members	Maintenance Staff

Participants will experience two days filled with learning opportunities to assist in the development and maintenance of a health promoting culture of wellness at the local level including:

- 1) interactive presentations on leadership and team building to support a schoolsite health promotion and wellness program;
- 2) presentations and sessions on a variety of employee wellness and school health programming ideas, school policies, and personal wellness strategies;
- 3) dedicated time for developing and drafting a year-long action plan for a comprehensive wellness program including staff and student health promotion; positive school climate; health enhancing policies; and support for healthy and active schools that lead to improved academic achievement.
- 4) A commitment to successfully implement a team based health promotion and wellness program with an action plan supported by the administration.

KEYNOTE: David Lee from Portland, Maine is an internationally recognized authority on organizational and managerial practices that optimize employee performance. David is the author of Managing Employee Stress and Safety and Storytelling for Trainers, as well as nearly one hundred articles and book chapters on employee and organizational performance. He has worked in the healthcare field as a clinician, supervisor, and trainer, and in the corporate world as a manager and trainer. In addition to his own work with both high performance and struggling organizations, David draws from a broad range of disciplines, including neuroscience, stress research, organizational development, and peak performance technologies. Taking this research David translates these principles of human nature into practices that optimize employee performance. His keynote will inspire us all to bring our best self to work every day!

Though best practice has proven that a conference team of five to ten members representing different positions within a school community ensures follow through on implementing the year-long action plan it is not always possible for a school district to field a team. A major change from the Wellness Conference to the Summit is that individuals and teams are welcome! It is recommended that attendees schedule a full school team meeting or a meeting with an administrator following the Summit to share learnings, the draft action plan and strategies to implement in the next school year.

Additionally, experience has proven that administrative support is a valuable asset for a wellness team and key to the sustainability of the team and implementing a year-long action plan.
